COMMUNITY IMPACT

A Collaborative Effort to Help Get #Girls2Great

An Interview with Danielle Morrissey, Principal of Blackstone Innovation School

Big Sister Association has partnered with the Blackstone Innovation School since we launched our School-Based Mentoring program in 2001. A long-standing partner, Big Sister has recognized school administrators as Partners of the Year throughout our collaboration.

We are thrilled to have matched 40 Blackstone students with a Big Sister in the most recent academic year. Principal Danielle Morrissey is a strong advocate for our combined effort to get girls to great. She was appointed school principal at the start of the 2013-2014 school year, the first year after the school became an Innovation School. She leads a very talented and highly committed staff.

Why did you choose to partner with Big Sister?

Historically speaking, the Blackstone has partnered with Big Sister for at least 10 years now. Due to the strong partnership over the years, and the benefits it has provided for our students, we have continued with this partnership.

What does an ideal collaborative effort look like?

An ideal collaborative effort looks like both the partner organization and the school having open and ongoing communication about how things are going with the program. Both parties have a mutual understanding and a common goal ensuring that students are served and

Last year, we matched and supported 40 girls at the Blackstone with a Big Sister. What impact has mentoring had on the girls at the Blackstone? Have you noticed an improvement in behavior and/or aspirations?

We have seen positive trends with girls in Big Sister's School-Based Mentoring program in terms of student

We recently announced the grand prize winner of our 26th Anniversary Car Raffle: Nicholas Hsieh, a college student doing his summer internship in Boston. "Even if I didn't win, it would've been for a good cause," said Hsieh. "I'm excited. I'll definitely come back to participate in next year's car raffle!"

This year's car was an Audi A5 Convertible, thanks to Prime Motor Group. The raffle drawing, held at 100 Summer Street Thursday, July 31, drew a crowd as participants anxiously awaited the results. Prime Motor Group representatives, Adam Stone and Stefani Lydon, pulled the winning ticket #624.

Big Sister raised an all-time high of $170,000 to benefit our mentoring programs for girls. Thank you to Prime Motor Group; Equity Office at 100 Summer Street; our official media sponsor, The Boston Globe; and all the raffle participants.

BIG THINGS HAPPENING

Celebrity Chef Dinner

On Sunday, June 1, celebrity chefs, Dante de Magistris of Restaurant dante and il Casale, Evan Deluty of Stella and No. 29 Sudbury, Jeremy Sewall of Eastern Standard and Row 34, Leo Asaro and PJ Waters of Alta Strada and Tico, delighted senses and inspired spirits at Big Sister Association's 15th Annual Celebrity Chef Dinner. Big Sister supporter, Chef Michael Schlow of Via Matta, Alta Strada, and Tico hosted the dining experience at Tico restaurant. "This event gets better and better every year," said Chef Michael Schlow. "It's been around for a long time and for good reason."

Susan Wornick, retired WCVB-TV5 anchor, ushered guests through the elaborate five-course dinner sharing stories about girls waiting for a Big Sister. Guests jumped at the chance to support the girls during the annual "Matchmaker Challenge." The event raised $175,000 to benefit Big Sister's mentoring programs for girls.

engagement and behavior. The girls view having a Big Sister as a privilege and strive to make their Sister proud, and as a result, they are becoming more productive school community members.

How would you describe the Blackstone Sisters when they engage with one another?

When the Administrative team has had the opportunity to observe Sisters interact, it is always positive. Students always have a smile on their face and they are engaged in the activity and conversation that is happening. Our Blackstone girls eagerly wait for their Big Sisters to arrive at school to meet with them and always look forward to their lunch dates. The Big Sisters who have devoted their time and made a commitment to these young girls have always engaged in a positive and professional manner with all Blackstone staff and consistently check in with their Little Sisters' teachers. In addition, if there are any concerns that come up during their visit that do not sit well with the Big Sister, they are always very proactive about informing their Match Support Specialist at Big Sister about it, to ensure any issues that the Little Sister is dealing with are addressed immediately.

FUN IN THE SUN

Celebrating Sisterhood at Our Annual Summer Picnic

Little Sister Roselenny and Big Sister JoAnne Sylvia build sand castles.

On Saturday, July 12, more than 300 Sisters crowded the fields of Camp Harbor View ready to have fun and strengthen their bond at our annual Summer Picnic.

Every summer, Sisters head to Boston's Long Island for an experience to remember. This year's theme "Celebrating Sisterhood" combined fun outdoor activities with purpose. Led by Big Sister staff serving as "Camp Counselors" for the day, Sisters participated in a range of activities. While some Sisters danced to DJ Renell's funky tunes, others enjoyed the swimming pool and sought a refreshing treat from the Mix 104.1 ice cream truck. Other activities included water-balloon toss, sand-castle building, soccer, and volleyball. The highlights of the day were the activities focused on girls' empowerment. Sisters created a gallery of positive images of women expressing their commitment to spreading positive images of women. Sisters took photos envisioning themselves as CEOs, ivy-league graduates, politicians, and scientists. Girls crowded around poster boards to show how they want the world to perceive them. "Girls are intelligent and courageous. Don't forget it!" commented one Little Sister.

Thank you Connors Family Office, Holly and David Bruce, and Camp Harbor View for your generosity! Huge thank you to b. good, Mix 104.1 Ice Cream Truck, Food Should Taste Good, Mary MacDonald, Snapple, and Trader Joes for all the treats!

NEW OPPORTUNITIES

Big Sister Sends Girls to Camp

This summer, 42 Little Sisters attended various summer camps thanks to scholarships and partnerships with: Dana Hall Girls Leadership Camp; The Main Idea Camp; The Summer Camp; Girls Rock Campaign Boston; West End House Girls Camp; and Fleur de Lis camp. Camp is a great opportunity for Sisters to form friendships with peers, and participate in character and leadership development activities.

Girls engaged in team and trust building activities at Dana Hall's summer camp in Wellesley, MA. Little Sister Millenia recounted, "I gained a lot of confidence and I made a lot of new friends." Her favorite activity was rock climbing, to which she said, "We had to help people climb and they put their trust in us because their lives were in our hands."

Girls also built confidence while attending Girls Rock Campaign Boston, learning how to play instruments, form a band, and perform original songs they wrote in front of a sold out, live audience.

We're proud to offer our Sisters a quality summer experience in which they discover, explore, and grow, while having FUN!

MEN SUPPORTING GIRL POWER

Meet Our New Vice President of Development

Wes Enicks, VP of Development (left) and Dennis Clarke, President and CEO of Cummings Properties, showing appreciation for an award of $100,000 from the Cummings Foundation's "$100K for 100" program.

Wes Enicks has joined Big Sister as the new Vice President of Development. In this role, Wes forges relationships that will increase Big Sister's visibility, impact, and financial resources.

What brought you to Boston?

I grew up in Boston and though I had not lived in the area for over 10 years, my wife and I had always planned to move back when the time was right.

Can you describe a highlight from your time at Big Brothers Big Sisters of Southeastern Pennsylvania (SEPA)?

There are two highlights from my time at SEPA that come to mind. The first is the growth and experience I gained as a leader. During my time at SEPA, I played a significant role in the development and achievement of large-scale strategic initiatives that not only resulted in fundraising growth, but also organization wide success. The second highlight was being a Big Brother. It was a life changing experience to serve as a mentor to my Little Brother Ashante and it gave me a tremendous amount of perspective into why mentoring organizations like SEPA and Big Sister are so important.

Why did you join Big Sister?

I am extremely mission driven in my work; as a result, the opportunity to stay within the

The challenges facing girls today are not just a female issue, but a human issue.

Wes Enicks
Big Sister's Vice President of Development

Big Brothers Big Sisters network and further a cause I truly believe in compelled me to explore Big Sister. I also saw an opportunity, as a man, to bring attention to an organization serving women and girls. Currently, only 7% of philanthropic dollars go to girl-serving organizations, and to me that is not right.

Big Sister Association is making a profound impact for girls in Greater Boston through its gender-specific mentoring model and that is something that everyone should get behind.

Why is mentoring important in the Greater Boston community?

Many of us have had a mentor who has helped guide and shape who we have become. Unfortunately far too many children, particularly in impoverished areas, do not have the benefit of a mentor. Often, all it takes to set children on the path to success is one extra person in their life believing in them, and having expectations for them. I look at the large scale problems facing too many in the Greater Boston area as solvable through mentoring, one child at a time.

Do you have a mentor?

My two professional mentors are both women and they have had a tremendous impact on me both personally and professionally. They have helped to shape my career and given me guidance when I have needed it most.

What role do men and boys play in helping women and girls realize their full potential?

The challenges facing girls today are not just a female issue, but a human issue. We all need to play a part in helping build the confidence and character of girls, in an effort to transform our communities. The work of Big Sister Association isn't just nice, it is necessary.

If you had to describe Big Sister's new strategic development approach in one word, what would it be?

Advocacy — Our strategic approach to development is to build strong and enduring relationships with individuals, organizations, and communities who share our passion for helping girls in Greater Boston reach their full potential.

What is your favorite thing about being a part of the Big Sister community?

Big Sister Association has a tremendous staff who are smart, competent, accomplished, and extremely dedicated to the mission and work of Big Sister. A strong organizational culture is hard to find, but I have found one with Big Sister.

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Big Sister Paola Villatoro Honored by Foundation To Be Named Later

An Interview with Big Sister Paola Villatoro, recipient of the Foundation To Be Named Later's Peter Gammons Scholarship and Big Sister to Little Sister Janaya.

This competitive scholarship program began in 2010 in partnership with RISO, Inc. to grant high-potential, yet low-resourced, Boston-area high school students a four-year scholarship. In its fourth year, the Peter Gammons Scholarship has awarded 29 students the opportunity to pursue higher education at the college of their choice. Paola was chosen from 50 applicants during the competitive review process.

Big Sister Paola Villatoro has been matched with her Little Sister Janaya, who recently completed fifth grade at the Trotter Innovation School, for two years. Paola has worked consistently to encourage her Little Sister to grow. Although Paola's Little Sister can be very quiet and shy, Paola has demonstrated maturity and patience in connecting with her through games, conversations, and crafts. She is a leader among other high school Big Sisters, and invaluable to her peers who are new to mentoring.

You've been awarded a four-year scholarship to a college of your choice. What are your plans for the scholarship?

The scholarship money will go toward my tuition at the University of Massachusetts, Boston.

What are you looking forward to most about college?

Exploring! In high school, we are restricted from exploring a variety of classes. I want to do something in the business field, but that is so broad that I cannot wait until I can [experience] different classes. College is about discovering your likes and dislikes. I may think that Accounting or Finance is for me, but I want to have an open mind to other majors that may attract me.

What would you tell other Little Sisters aspiring to attend college?

Number one: Every human has a story, which means that all of us have obstacles. What makes us different is how we approach those obstacles.

Little Sister Janaya and Big Sister Paola Villatoro.

Is there anyone who you would like to thank for the scholarship opportunity?

I want to thank Big Sister Association, Susan Johnson, and Allyce Najimy for giving me something priceless: opportunity. Big Sister Association gave me the opportunity to not only have my own Little Sister, but to become an influential part of a young girl's life. Big Sister allowed me to see that every little bit can make a difference, just like Susan made a difference in my life. Susan, [Big Sister Coordinator of High School Mentoring], was more than just supportive. It's like she knew I was going to get the scholarship from the confidence she had in me, which made me believe in myself. I am beyond grateful for the opportunity that

Do not let the fact that we [women] are a minority become an obstacle.

Let it become an aspiration to be a part of change. Big Sister Paola Villatoro

Number two: Pity should not be an option. You should not feel pity for yourself or want others to feel that for you. You want others to give you opportunities because they believe in you and because you deserve it, not because they “feel bad.” There is no real reward in pity.

Number three: As females we should understand that we are a minority in the professional world, but understanding it, does not mean accepting it. Do not let the fact that we are a minority become an obstacle. Let it become an aspiration to be a part of change. If you are aspiring to go to college, do not allow anything or anyone to take that aspiration from you. As corny as it may sound, achieving any goal is about attitude and believing in yourself.

Allyce and the Foundation To Be Named Later review committee has given me. They have given me the chance to achieve the one thing no one in my family has been able to achieve. Most importantly, they all believed in me; there is nothing better than having people believe in you and open doors to give you an opportunity. Now, college is more than just a personal goal: it has become the shared goal of those who have given me the opportunity. I cannot wait to prove to them that they made the right decision by selecting me.
